

FUTURE OF INFINITIES

Many things come to mind when it comes to the holders and the token. Potentially, having the project become a DAO would be ideal, to give everyone an equal say as to what happens within the project for a number reasons. High on that list, when taxes are ended or how to adjust them in order to make the token deflationary.

The main reason to not renounce the contract is because my plan to expedite the development of IncluCity is to create an income for the project that would go 100% to the development. After the development is well underway and we release IncluCity, the NFT builder software, the marketplace and dApps to make things easier, (i.e. DEX, Bridge, staking, wallet etc.) the cash flow would be used to replace the taxes on buys and sales of the TOKEN. dApps will either be partnership opportunities or developed in house.

Everything that comes in that isn't used for the replacement of the 10% buy/sell tax would be used for either liquidity injections, deflationary methods, (i.e. buybacks and burn mechanisms) and/or reflections to the holders, split in accordance to the number of INFINITIES an individual holds, giveaways, (i.e. free 3-6-12 month subscriptions, marketplace credits, INFINITIES, etc.) and lastly the possibility of charitable donations that would be voted on and decided with the help of all the holders. These reasons are why having this potentially becoming a DAO.

Community

